(1) New Business

1-1. Idahoans for Openness in Government

- The Idaho Attorney General's office will be presenting, as will Idahoans for Openness in Government, which sponsors these events. The Idaho Press is the local co-sponsor and will give a brief welcome. Attorney General Lawrence Wasden, Deputy Attorney General Brian Kane, and Betsy Russell are the main speakers.
- The format is that there are talks and PowerPoint presentations interspersed with interactive skits, in which audience members are assigned roles. After each skit, there are presentations on what they teach about how to comply with the Idaho Open Meeting Law or Idaho Public Records law (or how not to, depending on what the skits portray). The tone is somewhat lighthearted, though the topic is serious, and there is generally lots of laughter. Questions from the audience also are answered.
- There's a break with refreshments in the middle of the event, between the open meeting law portion and the public records law portion. We distribute evaluations at the end and ask participants to give us feedback.
